As part of the world's leading functional food ingredients group, Danisco Sweeteners focuses on the pursuit of knowledge and excellence in specialty carbohydrates. Strong innovation and commitment in this approach means we are able to provide our partners with much more than a sweetening profile. Danisco Sweeteners is therefore also proud to have a long history in the production of pharmaceutical excipients, intermediates and actives based on our specialty carbohydrate systems.

In the pharmaceutical arena our unique range of excipients enable optimum performance and differentiation in a variety of delivery systems, from tablets and rapid-melt products to syrup formulas. Danisco Sweeteners also produces Rare Sugars, used for research and development of important anti-viral, anti-inflammatory drugs as well as cancer therapeutics. Natural Betaine, derived from sugar beet is also available. Betaine (TMG) is well recognized for cholesterol and homocysteine lowering capabilities.

At Danisco Sweeteners we believe in the power of partnership, where our ingredients and application expertise is able to complement your own formula for success. Finding the right partner for the development of new formulations can be easier than you imagine. Working with Danisco Sweeteners provides you with consistency in product quality, high performance excipients and the reassurance of expert product knowledge. This expertise is backed up with the resources of an international team of dedicated technical managers and applications technologists.

Our customers include research and development facilities, formulators, production sites, and marketing teams, in a wide variety of pharmaceutical, nutraceutical, and health focused businesses. So whether it's greater stability of formulation, improved taste for patient compliance or a sugar free claim you are after, you'll find that Danisco Sweeteners is a partner that offers you a little more substance.
